Smiles Vs. Tears
Would I could write a song that would beguile
All hearts of pain and leave a lasting smile;
But smiles are lovely, only when they glow
Twist pain and heartaches, planted row by row.
"Cry not," "Grieve not!" are words we never say,
Too real is anguish to be soothed that way.
We whisper only, "wait a little while,
Some day shall grief make lovelier your smile
Some day you shall remember and be glad
To count the hours of happiness you've had.
But all the brave and gentle souls you know
Have planted smiles and heartaches row by row—Selected.
The above poem has been selected, hoping that my sorrowing friends at this time will derive comfort from reading it, as I did when "pain and heart ache" had banished all smiles.

Another Heiress Jilts Uncle Sam

Poor Uncle Sam! He's losing his allure for the ladies. First Barbara Hutton renounced her citizenship. Now Mrs. Cornelius Dresselhuys, the former Lorraine Manville, heiress sister of Tommy Manville, has broken off her relations with him to become a subject of Queen Wilhelmina of Netherlands. She's pictured above subject of Dutch diplomat husband and only daughter by a previous marriage. Most of Mrs. Dresselhuys' $3,000,000 fortune will remain in the United States.

Three Nations Take

Uncle Sam's Rich
But instead of facing merely the menace of a victorious Germany, the country now, says Leahy, should consider the possibility of a disturbance not only on the Atlantic side but on the Pacific. So, in his calculations before the committee, he lumps Japan, Italy and Germany together for comparison with the American navy.
The whole world knows that the United States is rich enough to build a big navy with less economic pain than any other country. With that as a premise, some followers of the naval race suspect that the noisy entrance of the United States was intended to compel the more belligerent nations to recognize, even if they build until they collapse economically, they can't keep up and had better call a halt.

Some index of the popularity in the United Kingdom of darts—the game in which you throw little feathered darts at a target—is the fact that a wave of acute shoulder pains has been diagnosed as a "new malady," dart shoulder.

Footloose Coed

Wearing shoes is a terrible price to pay for an education, according to Ingrid Larsen, coed at the University of Minnesota and a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. At home in Hawaii she never wore shoes, so Miss Larsen doffs hers as soon as she gets home from classes. Above, barefooted, she is garbed in a holo, formal Hawaiian party dress.

"Recession" Has Its Silver Lining

This Year's Food Dollar May Go Farther Than 1937's

By the AP Feature Service
WASHINGTON.—Bright spot in the 1938 outlook for the American consumer is the prospect that this year's food dollar will go further than 1937's. Unusually large foodstuff supplies, presage continuation of the current "bracing spell" from mounting food costs. Barring a severe drought, government food supply experts see a trend to a lower general price level. Extent of the decline can be only a guess, but a price level of 6 to 8 per cent below last year is regarded as a reasonable estimate.
Between last May, when prices were at the highest level since the spring of 1931, and December 14, when the last official survey was taken, the decline was 46 per cent. Since then there has been a break in meat prices, particularly in better grade beef.
Here are some of the factors on which government officials base their unofficial forecast: Potatoes, No. 1 item on the poor man's budget, now 36 per cent below prices of a year ago, probably will continue at that level at least through first half of 1938; oranges are felled for the "bargain counter"; seasonal decline of butter prices from the December peak probably will be greater than average; dry edible beans are slated to be cheaper than last year; cereals and bakery products may go somewhat lower; fats and oils are declining in price; rice supplies will exceed any other year on record; total supplies of canned vegetables are indicated to be the largest recorded.

200 City Folks Are Now Good Farmers

Resettlement Administration Turns Old Fields Into Good Land

By PAUL SIMMONS
AP Feature Service Writer
HAMILTON, Ga.—A promise of a different kind of farming in the South—a kind that not only brings a good living but also regular cash profits—is emerging from a 13,000-acre settlement in the red hills of Georgia.
It is coming from community farm industries built around 200 families who are finding a new life on land the Federal Relief administration bought four years ago for $11 an acre.
Hard hit by the depression, the families were none too hopeful when they settled on the 15- to 36-acre farms in Pine Mountain Valley. But now their pantries are full and their produce is selling.
From Ships to Chickens
Pierce Thomason, a former shipyard worker, for instance, cleared $300 last season on his farm. He expects $1,200 this year—a 33% per cent return on a $3,500 investment in land, livestock, buildings and equipment sold him on a long term payment plan.
Allen Meeks made $40 from poultry in one month and paid more than $300 last year on his indebtedness. E. W.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

"BACKGROUND" TROUBLE

The sky makes an excellent background for pictures of people. But don't tilt the camera too sharply!

IN YOUR snapshots of people, do you ever run into "background" trouble? That is, do the backgrounds in your pictures tend to attract more attention than the persons in them?
This is the case in a great many amateur snapshots, and the reason is simple. Many photographers concentrate all their attention on the person or persons they are picturing, and forget that there is a background. But the camera doesn't forget—it obediently takes in everything at which it is pointed.
The background is just as important as the person in a picture, and should receive just as much attention. Particularly does one need to take care that the background is not obtrusive, and does not "steal the show" from the person pictured.
In the summer time, the "worst offender" in backgrounds is spotty foliage, such as trees or foliage with light shining between the leaves. Backgrounds of this sort tend to show up as strong black with blotches of strong white, and prove quite distracting.
In the winter time, when many pictures are made indoors, wallpaper with a pronounced pattern spoils many pictures that otherwise would be excellent. Too, in winter work outdoors, many amateurs overlook trees behind the subject, and obtain pictures which appear to show bare tree branches growing out of a person's head.
The best backgrounds are neutral. They may range from almost white for a brightly-lighted cheery effect, to almost black for an effect of dignity or richness; but they should almost never have a vigorous pattern or too definite a character of their own.
Outdoors, one of the best simple backgrounds is the sky. To obtain a sky background, it is necessary to use the camera fairly low and point it slightly upward. Do not tilt the camera too sharply, unless you want your subjects to appear to be leaning back. A color filter, used over the lens, helps to give richness and depth of tone to the sky.

"Firefly" at Saenger Sunday

Jeanette MacDonald and Allan Jones in "The Firefly"

At the Saenger
Each recent year has brought to the screen a finer type of musical picture and 1938 is no exception. "The Firefly," impressive adaptation of Rudolf Friml's memorable operetta, with Jeanette MacDonald in her seventeenth musical triumph, is Hollywood's new offering for 3 shows only at the Saenger, two Sunday and one Monday night at 8 o'clock.
Allan Jones and Warren William as the star's leading men delights the audience.
"The Firefly" presents a powerful story of dramatic romance, as well as a vehicle for remarkable music.
At the Rialto
An "eternal triangle" in the heart of the African jungle brings added thrill to "Tarzan's Revenge," Edgar Rice Burroughs' screenplay at the Rialto Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, with Glenn Morris and Eleanor Holm as co-stars.
As the story opens, Miss Holm, on an expedition headed by her father, is the fiancée of George Meeker, also a member of the party. As their safari proceeds into the interior the mysterious Tarzan, lurking in the tree-tops, becomes interested in the beautiful girl, and after the two have become acquainted she finds herself reciprocating the ape-man's affections. The progress of this strange romance, despite the efforts of the outraged Meeker, forms a dramatic highlight of the story.

Heiress Honeymoons With Band Maestro

Mrs. Val Ernie

MRS. VAL ERNIE is honeymooning with her band leader-husband in Florida, where Ernie's orchestra is filling an engagement.
Mrs. Ernie, the former Mrs. Chauncey Woodworth, is heiress to a fortune estimated at $7,000,000.
Settlers don't waste any time on door-to-door peddling. They take their produce to the corporation's warehouses for careful grading, uniform packing and marketing in bulk.
Poultry has been their No. 1 money-maker. It brought more than $38,000 to the valley in three months last season. W. T. Bennett, manager of the settlement, expects $75,000 this year, $35,000 of it clear profit.
A corporation poultry plant is making $3,000 a year over expenses. It represents an outlay of not more than $15,000.
Dairying is second in the list of profit producers. Truck and vegetable growing come third. Cotton the mainstay of many hardpressed Dixie farmers, is a poor fourth.
Bennett, a former county farm agent says: "I am convinced that a farm development with as much as 2,500 acres of reasonably good land can, with wise management, be made to pay greater dividends than almost any other industry you might select. It takes a lot of planning and business ability, but it can be done."

Soil Is Improved
The first step in Pine Mountain Valley's success, he says, was treading the worn-out fields with modern machinery and laying out the farms for efficient use of the different land types.
Soil-building crops—mainly vetch, Austrian peas and crimson clover in the winter and field peas, soy beans and velvet beans in the summer—have doubled the land's productivity. There is no let up in this direction and Bennett does not see any limit to the benefits.

Farmer Turns Corn to Gold

ENNIS, Texas.—(AP)—Sixteen dollars and fifteen cents for an ear of corn! That is the record made by S. Sibley, farmer near here. The ear won $9 in premiums at various fairs and then was auctioned by grains and brought an additional $7.15.
In one year Sibley and his family won more than $700 in fair premiums in Ennis, Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco. Sibley specializes in raising quality farm products. In 1933 he raised 12 ears of corn on 18 acres, whereas the average of the county is between a fourth and a third of a bushel to the acre. He ascribes his success to his seed, rotation of crops, good fertilizer, and early plowing.
Had it not rained one day in the fall of 1924, Sibley perhaps would not have become interested in being other than a tenant farmer. Having nothing to do when it rained, he took some chickens to the Ennis county fair and won $20 in premiums.

STORIES IN STAMPS

SHIFTING AN ISLAND WINDWARD

DOMINICA, the island that Columbus named because he discovered it on Sunday—"Domingo" in Spanish—is shifting to the Windward these days. By act of the British Parliament administration of the tiny patch of land in the Caribbean is being shifted from the Leeward to the Windward group in the Lesser Antilles. So Dominica thrusts into the news again, a rare occurrence. For with an area scarcely twice the size of Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts, life is pretty quiet there. It is, moreover, a land of deep forests, many streams and extinct volcanoes.

Its climate is perpetually summer with a rich, varied rainfall. Its chief product is the lime tree. Lime orchards have sprung up to furnish fresh limes, pickled limes, lime juice and lime oil for the world. Coffee, oranges, India-rubber trees, coconuts, bananas and rum are also exported.

The capital is Roseau but Portsmouth is the chief city. Seal of the Colony and George V are shown here on a 1923 stamp of Dominica.

So They Say

America—the people are so alive, so eager and young . . . Europe, you know, is so full of solemn old men with beards—Lotte Goslar, German dancer on a tour of America.

Marriages should be arranged only after people know each other's character and disposition . . . Make home heaven, a place where the heart loves to dwell—Msgr. M. J. Levelle, New York city, giving advice to young people.

The practical answer to the problem of unemployment is to find jobs for men who want to work—John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Even if the Germans wanted to revolt, they couldn't—Rabbi Philip S. Bernstein, in a lecture in Rochester, N. Y.
